

Guelph Arts Council Announces 2021 Historical Walking Tours Season

Guelph, ON – April 6, 2021 – The 2021 Historical Walking Tours season launches on Sunday, May 2. An annual Guelph tradition, the Historical Walking Tours highlight Guelph’s rich cultural, architectural, and social history through six featured tours. Hosted by Guelph Arts Council and led by a team of volunteer tour guides, the tours provide an opportunity to learn the stories and history behind Guelph landmarks and popular walking routes. The cost is $8 per person, online through the guelpharts.ca event calendar. Spots are limited, and all participants must wear masks.

For over thirty years, Guelph Arts Council has celebrated the city’s cultural history through walking tours extending over a period of several months. The 2021 tours will run from May 2 – October 3 (except July) and will range from exploring the slopes of the Speed River, various areas of Downtown Guelph, Catholic Hill and Exhibition Park, and what was formerly known as Brooklyn, one of Guelph’s early industrial sections. Please note: specific tour dates and registration limits may be affected by COVID-19 public health regulations. Registered participants will be notified of tour changes, and refunds will apply to any cancellations.

This season’s walking tours will kick off with Where Guelph Began, on Sunday, May 2, 2021 at 10 am. This tour encircles the original Market Square area, an area for both current and historic social and business life, where many of Guelph’s first buildings were built.

Tours include Where Guelph Began, Slopes of the Speed, Altar and Hearth, Brooklyn and the College Hill, and Ward One Guelph. Participants will engage in an enriching in-person tour that aligns with public health recommendations, while hearing Guelph’s stories and viewing some of the city’s best examples of masonry, stone carving, and historic architecture. A free Public Art Walk on September 25 will be included in these historic walks as part of Culture Days Guelph. Donations to Guelph Arts Council are gratefully accepted. This tour explores public art in Downtown Guelph and highlights how public art reflects Guelph’s values, diversity, and heritage.
